

Bridesmaid Role

You are the chosen one!

How to act the part and have FUN

Here's a history lesson. Did you know the role of the bridesmaid goes as far back as the pagan times. People think that evil spirits would attend wedding ceremonies so by placing look a-likes around the bride, the evil spirits would not be able to single her out.

We're hoping that the bride is not superstitious and won't be concerned about all that mumbo jumbo. She has chosen you because you are the one who will be supportive in the planning of the wedding and on the day of the big occasion itself. Its an honour to have been asked

The role is extremely important and diverse. Duties include escorting her on shopping sprees (more like heaven in most cases) to organising a great hen night and walking her down the aisle. Make sure the bride does not give you a tacky dress for the day otherwise you know she doesn't love you.

Remember to enjoy the whole experience from beginning to end.
